Origin of the Bandana.

Since the red bandana handkerchief has been adopted by the Democrats as the Thurman badge, we have been asked by many persons for the origin of the word, but have been unable to ascertain it. Chambers' Encyclopedia, a dictionary of universal knowledge for the people, gives the following definition of the word: "Bandana, a kind of printed handkerchief of Indian origin, now extensively made in Britain, usually of cotton. The cloth is first dyed Turkey red, and then the pattern is made by discharging the color with bleaching liquor in a powerful Bramah press. The pattern to be discharged is cut out on two plates of such metal (lead) as may not be acted on by the liquor, and of full size of the handkerchief. A dozen or more are put in at once between the plates, and so many of these courses are entered together as will fill the press, when the pressure is applied, and the liquor is run in on the uppermost plate through all the cloth in the press. The pressure on the cloth makes clean work by preventing the spreading of the liquor, is enormous. The patterns in the real B. style of printing are spots and diamond prints, the best suited for discharging, and even for these a pressure of 500 tons is required to work them clean."

Mr. Thurman; it is said, has been in the habit for years of taking snuff and uses a bandana handkerchief because it does not show the snuff stains as plainly as white. The difference between him and other politicians who take snuff is that he does his own sneezing while other leading politicians take snuff, and have some one else to do the sneezing, that is, they lay the plans and have some one else to carry them out, but Thurman is a statesman, who, when his services are demanded by the country, puts on the whole armor and enters the battle-field ready to do battle himself with the boys in the trenches, and fights the good fight with all his ability and power, hence he is the noblest "Old Roman" of them all.—Ex.

Boy—"What is a crank, pa?" Pa—"A crank is a man with one idea." Boy—"But suppose a man has no idea at all. What is he then?" Pa—"A juror, my son."

If good people would but make goodness agreeable, and smite instead of frowning in their virtue, how many would they gain to the good cause!

Home and Farm.

Give potatoes that you want to mature early soil already rich, or feed them with well-rotted manure. It requires several years to secure a pasture. For that reason it is better to well manure old pastures, and keep the stock off, so as to renew them, than to plow the sod under and attempt to begin a new pasture. The harrow may be passed over the pasture where it can be done, and the ground reseeded, but the manure is the most important adjunct. Use your soapuds. A pint of carbolic acid in a barrel of soapuds will make an excellent liquid for destroying many insects that infest trees and vines. Ripe and fresh fruit harms no one even in cholera seasons. Unripe, stale fruit does not digest, hence causes irritation of the bowels. Why have any dry fodder? Why not put all the grass into the soil and cut all the grain with staks? This question is often asked. Why not feed the family entirely on canned goods? Both questions can be answered alike. Animals as well as men need a variety. Cattle like a little dry hay with their silage, and there are many ways in which it is cheaper to feed dry-grain alone. Again, hay is a good crop to sell when the silo is in proper operation.

What a radical and wholesome change it will be in American farming, says an exchange, when snuff will be kept for the good they do on the farm. On this basis there will be no stinting in food and shiftlessness in their care and management, and these attentions will begat a desire for the best. It costs so little to have a good flock of sheek that there is no excuse for any farmer not availing himself of these efficient and cheap aids.

Democratic Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT:
GROVER CLEVELAND,
Of New York.
FOR VICE PRESIDENT:
ALLEN G. THURMAN,
Of Ohio.

Nominated.

On Monday last, being the seventh day of the Convention and the 8th ballot, ex-Senator Benjamin Harrison was nominated as the Republican Presidential standard-bearer for the year of grace, 1888. This action of the Convention seems to have been more the result of spatework than because of any inherent qualities of personal magnetism or availability possessed by the nominee. The fact is, the friends of the other candidates had become heartily tired of the dictatorial tone assumed by the Blaine managers, and it was simply a combination of "the field against the favorite," which finally resulted in Harrison's nomination.

If the nominee suits Republicans he certainly ought to please Democrats. As far as the public knows, the private character of Mr. Harrison is above reproach. But he is not a man of the people. In temperament he is as cold and forbidding as John Sherman, and as haughty and aristocratic as was ever Charles Sumner. His public career has not been such as to mark him as "a man of victory." Some years ago he ran for Governor of Indiana and was badly beaten by "Blue Jeans" Williams, a plain old farmer; and later on Judge Turpie defeated him for reelection to the Senate of the United States. Outside of Indiana he is unknown to the masses, and even within the limits of that State it has been practically demonstrated that he is far from being universally popular, and he cannot carry that State in November.

Blaine would have aroused "the boys" and created a wild enthusiasm which will now be silent; Alger or Gresham would have stirred up the old soldiers and started the banners waving on every Grand Army Post throughout the country; Allison would have started into a blaze the vast prairies of the West, while the grangers would have flocked to his standard by the thousands; Sherman would have consolidated all the discordant elements of his party, and, backed by the powerful influence of Wall street, could have hurled a mighty engine of destruction into the opposing ranks of Democracy. But Mr. Harrison can do none of these things—neither create enthusiasm, secure the soldier vote, capture the grangers, carry the Pacific Slope or unify the disaffectioned and jealous heartburnings now threatening the life of his party.

For Vice President, Levi P. Morton, of New York, received the nomination. Mr. Morton is noted principally as one of the wealthiest bankers and railroad magnates in the country, and perhaps has a larger influence over the railroad mileage of this country than any man in the United States. Presumably, he was either placed on the ticket with the faint hope of carrying New York, or because of the powerful moneyed and corporation influence which he wields. The ticket is well conceived—aristocracy at one end, money at the other, and defeat in the perspective.

The vote on the final ballots was as follows:
President—Harrison 504; Sherman, 118; Alger, 102; Gresham, 59; Blaine, 52; McKinley, 4.
Vice President—Morton, 591; Phelps, 119; Bradley, 103; Bruce, 11; W. F. Thomas, 1.

If the nomination of Ben Harrison is anything in particular, it is much more so than the nomination of Republican leaders at the Chicago Convention. It is a past in order Indiana, and throws Ohio into the shade, to say no more of Illinois; while Oregon and Nevada can be considered to the Democratic ticket.

Our own and only Billy O'Bradley was given the much sought opportunity to make a spectacle of himself in the Chicago Convention, and according to the newspapers of that city he made it. The trouble with William O. is, that he is rather too large for the State of Kentucky, but infinitely too small to spread all over the United States.

William Patterson, for the murder of Jennie Bowman, was lodged in the Louisville jail at sunrise on Friday morning last. His case at one time created a great deal of excitement in that city, as there were those who believed him innocent of the crime for which he was hung.

The National platform of the Republican party, adopted last week at Chicago, is a real work of art—in fact the most artful piece of current literature we have read for some four years—and its beautiful "mosaic" stands out as bold and transparent as its true meaning is opaque and intangible. For instance, in one plank we have the following:

"We denounce the Mills bill as destructive to the general business, the labor and the farming interests of the country, and we heartily endorse the consistent and patriotic action of the Republican Representatives in Congress in opposing its passage."

Now, the real effect of the passage of the Mills bill would be, not "destructive to the general business" of the farmer and laboring man, but would, by throwing open the market to fair competition, cheapen every article of prime necessity and thus lighten the burden of taxation now pressing so heavily upon the farmer and the common laborer. It is true, the passage of this bill might somewhat curtail the enormous profits of those Eastern manufacturers who now make "large fortunes every year," according to high Republican authority, but the farmer and the laboring man would be the gainers thereby.

In another plank of the platform we read as follows:

"We declare our opposition to all combinations of capital, organized in trusts or otherwise, to control arbitrarily, the condition of trade among the citizens."

The insincerity and inconsistency of the above is too transparent to deceive any one who takes the trouble to read carefully between the lines. In one sentence the platform deprecates and denounces monopolies and combinations of capital to control the markets, and in another sentence advocates a high protective or prohibitive system of customs duties without which such trusts and combinations would be impossible. In other words, our Republican platform-makers say to these wealthy monopolists, "We are opposed to your fleecing the people, but at the same time we shall do all in our power to enable you to do it. Such hypocrisy is an insult to the poorest intelligence. The only practicable manner in which these moneyed syndicates now cursing the country can be broken up is by placing on the free list all articles now controlled by them, and to this the Republican party refuses to consent. Previous to our present prohibitive system going into effect, there was no such thing known in this country as a commercial syndicate or trust. They are the offspring and immediate result of that narrow policy of protection which fosters one industry at the expense of all others, and which virtually says to the farmer and the laboring man, 'You shall submit to the extortionate prices created by these syndicates, in order that a few ironmasters and cotton and woolen spinners in the East may be enabled to "make large fortunes every year." Such is the true meaning of "protection" and such its legitimate results.

To more clearly demonstrate the insincerity of the Republican party on the tariff question, we reproduce the tariff plank of their platform adopted in 1884, and which reads as follows:

"The Republican party pledges itself to correct the irregularities of the tariff and to reduce the surplus, not by the vicious and indiscriminate process of horizontal reduction, but by such methods as will relieve the tax-payer without injuring the laborer, or the great productive interests of the country."

So said the Republican party four years ago in National Convention assembled. But what has that party since done to redeem its solemn pledges? In Congress it has heretofore defeated every effort of the Democracy looking towards a just and moderate reduction of customs duties, and is now bitterly antagonizing the Mills bill, a man which a better insurmountable barrier in the interests of the whole country and inspired by the genius of "equal rights to all and exclusive privileges to none," could not possibly have been formulated. Instead of endeavoring to "reduce the surplus," as promised in their platform four years ago, the Republican party, through its Representatives in Congress, have witnessed this surplus grow from $25,000,000 to the enormous sum of $125,000,000, threatening to overshadow and bankrupt the country, without lifting so much as one little finger to stay the calamity or avert the threatened danger. And the professions of their present platform are equally shameless and hollow.

The issue having now been made up between the two great political parties, of a prohibitive tariff on the one side and a tariff for revenue only, with incidental protection to American industries on the other side, it now remains to be seen whether the people of this country really do seek relief from the burden of such taxes, or whether they are still content to wear the galling yoke of the monopoly.

The action of the Chicago Convention in throwing Mahone overboard and admitting the Wise delegates is an indication that the Republican party proposes to cut loose from the South in this Presidential contest and look exclusively to the Northern States for its electoral votes. Having no further use for Mahone, therefore, he is tossed aside as any other piece of worthless rubbish would be. This may be a wise policy on the part of the Republican leaders, however rough it may be on Mahone. But had he any just cause to expect better treatment? He betrayed his section and his party and went over to the enemy at a time when grave issues hung trembling in the balance, and he has only received the usual reward of traitors. As to the "true inwardness" of this disgraceful knock out of Mahone, Geo. C. Gorham, a well known Republican politician and manager, says:

"Gen. Mahone is sacrificed in the National Convention to appease the wrath of the 'Plumed Knight,' who skulked between the lines of the two great political parties of the day from 1870 to 1883."

Mahone's defeat will doubtless result in a gain of several Democratic Congressmen from Virginia, as it is hardly probable the little General will longer exert himself to secure Republican victories.

The forced withdrawal of Chauncey M. Depew from the race as a Presidential candidate, though backed by the solid New York delegation, should teach our Republican friends a lesson, if they are not already too wise in their own conceit. It was an acknowledgment of the power of the granger element in the Convention; it was a concession of the fact that the great agricultural interests of the West and Northwest do not propose longer to submit to the domination in the policies of this country of rich railroad corporations and other moneyed syndicates. It was proof positive that the grangers of the West would no longer submit to the dictation of the kid glove aristocracy of the East. It was a triumph of labor over capital, and you can make nothing else out of it.

Representative Mills, father of the Mills bill, has this to say in regard to the Republican platform: "It is a very bold declaration of the policy of the Republicans. They have put their party up for free whisky rather than for a reduction in the necessities of life. It is the triumph of Kelley and the Pennsylvania idea over the Republicans of the West and Northwest. The Republican party is now thoroughly committed to free whisky and to free trade in whisky, and against any popular reduction in the customs duties for the benefit of the people. The country knows exactly where the Republicans stand. There can be no mistaking the issue this campaign. We gladly accept the declaration of principles that comes from Chicago."

The Murray, Ky., News says: On Monday afternoon a sad accident and death took place south of town. A son of Fayette Wilson, aged ten years, was in the field at work, and when quitting time arrived the little fellow unhitched the animal from the plow, jumped on its back and started for home. When only a short distance the mule took fright at some object and threw the little fellow, his feet becoming entangled in the gear and in this way the animal ran with him for about two hundred yards, when some parties near by went to his assistance, but too late, as his body had been terribly mangled, and he was breathing his last when they reached him.

The Republican platform means nothing, it means that the g. o. p. is in favor of free whisky and a yet higher tariff on some of the prime necessities of life, so as to virtually prohibit foreign importations and leave the people of this country entirely at the mercy of syndicates and trusts. It is a platform made to favor the rich manufacturing interests at the expense of the agriculturist and the common laborer. The issue is now fairly joined. It is that of capital against labor, the rich against the poor. Can the contest be a doubtful one?

If the Republican party had intended fighting the approaching battle on a platform of principles, the Chicago Convention would have nominated John Sherman for the Presidency. Sherman is the very quintessence and embodiment of Republicanism, as formerly expounded. But this fight is to be made on the lines of expediency and claptrap. Hence such old time leaders as John Sherman are slaughtered without mercy.

Judging from their platform, this campaign is to be made by the Republican party on a strictly cash basis, with dollars and cents as the leading issues. In other words, they will endeavor to buy the Presidency if they can wring from the wealthy syndicates and corporations of the country enough cold cash to buy up the doubtful States. It is a frail thread on which to hang their hopes, and yet money is a powerful factor in modern politics.

FREDONIA.

Last Sunday morning, as Mr. C. A. Wilson and family were on their way to church at Bethlehem, their horse ran away with the buggy, the bits having broken. Charley tried to stop him by talking, but it was no go; he then jumped on him thinking to stop him by catching his nose, but he was soon thrown off. The horse ran on to its usual hitching place at the church with his wife and daughters in the buggy, but in making such a short turn the buggy was upset and they were thrown out. Mrs. Wilson was badly hurt; her elbow was dislocated and her head bruised considerably, her daughter was not hurt, but all were badly scared.

Mrs. Moore, the temperance lecturer, addressed a large crowd at the C. P. church last Saturday and Sunday nights.

The Glenn sulphur spring, near Caldwell Spring church, bids fair to become a famous resort for invalids, as well as pleasure seekers. Several are using the water for chronic diseases, with the best of results. There will be preaching at the spring on the second Sunday in July when an immense crowd is expected to be present to hear the sermon and test the medicinal qualities of the water.

Chas. Burris went on the excursion to Henderson last Saturday and will eat free grub there for 90 days, his services are badly needed here, to finish up some jobs of painting. The silk velvet whisky does not agree with him.

Miss Minnie Bice, of Golconda, has been visiting her relatives here for several days past.

Mrs. Sue W. Johnson, of Mt. Vernon, Ill., is the guest of her brother R. L. Wigginton, this week.

Miss Hattie Easley can handle snakes almost equal to an East India snake charmer. Perhaps she could not charm a cobra constrictor, but she can evidently charm the boys.

Brown, with his new buggy and his splendid trotter

Took his girl last Sunday to try the sulphur water.

Ray Bros. & Dewey had to stop their mill several days on account of a leak in boiler, and send to Evansville for hands to repair it. They got behind on their orders, but are running the mill to its utmost capacity night and day and will soon be up again.

A. S. McChesney and Miss Lou Wyatt were in town several days last week. They left for Princeton Monday. The promise is to the faithful. I guess Mc has read that much Scripture at least and will be faithful.

Bell White and Willie McElroy were in town Sunday evening.

The rain here last Saturday evening was the hardest one for thirteen months, and perhaps for that many years, wheat is in danger from the continued showers and excessive heat.

Fuller Maxwell is in the community for the past few days, after a long absence, looking at the world's wonders.

G. H. Vogle is the boss horse jockey of the town.

The chicken bugs are distressingly numerous in this community.

FREEDOM CHURCH.

The continuous warm rains of the past ten days have caused vegetation of all kinds—wheat included—to leap from the earth with a rapidity simply astounding.

The wheat crop in this section has been harvested in fair condition, considering the unfavorable weather. The grain is pronounced good, and the yield much better than was anticipated.

We are waiting patiently on Mr. Clark to come forward and explain why he fenced in the road to Crittenden Springs without warrant of law. The records show that he is entitled to have this road opened, and it has got to be done, even if an appeal to the courts to enforce our rights becomes necessary; and if we are driven to this it might go hard with Mr. Clark.

Mrs. R. and myself spent Sunday last with Uncle Jimmie Brown and family, on which occasion I first made the acquaintance of Miss Mary Russell Brown, aged three months. From present indications, this dark-haired and dark-eyed little beauty will prove a regular heart-smasher, one of these days.

Nothing unforeseen preventing, a protracted meeting will commence at Freedom Church on Saturday before the third Sunday in August. The pastor, Elder G. H. Bolt, requests me to extend a cordial invitation to ministers of any denomination to be present and assist him on that occasion.

Last year my brother-in-law, Mr. Lewis Mansfield, of Athens county, Ohio, sent me a quart or more of a new variety of oats called the White Welcome. I sowed them this spring on common thin land, without fertilizing, and when they were a foot high my stock got in and ate them bare to the ground. On Monday last I cut and brought to the post office an average stalk, measuring four and a half feet, with a head fifteen inches in length, loaded with the finest grain. These oats are very heavy, averaging 50 pounds to the bushel. I will harvest fully a bushel and a half of grain from my quart of seed.

Last week our neighborhood was "all tored up" over a trial in Squire Bruce's court. By some strange freak of nature a man by the name of Milton Woodside, was appointed Supervisor and warned his hands on the road last spring in the busiest part of the season. Some refused to obey, and Woodside had warrants issued against some seven or eight of them, among them my oldest son. I know nothing about the other cases, but so far as my son is concerned, I know this: That he was told by the Supervisor of another road that he belonged to his road; that he was warned out and worked said road; that Judge Moore told me that was all the law required and to pay no attention to Woodside's summons. And yet in the teeth of this evidence Squire Bruce fined my son as much as he did those who had no excuse whatever to offer. A rather remarkable coincidence connected with this remarkable suit is this: I was told by a reliable man that Woodside had stated a week or so before the trial that he had a particular spite against Charlie Russell and three of the others whom he sued; and those four were the only ones fined. His spite against my son was caused, I presume, by my having loaned Woodside money when he was penniless, and doing him every other favor in my power. As to my boy's fine, I will see that he pays it, and trust it will not so impoverish him that it will be necessary for the squire to hold one of his "conquests" over his dead body, nor be necessary for him to ask the county to support his mother.

CHAPEL HILL.

The wheat is all harvested in this community; the recent rains damaged considerable.

The Sunday school of District No. 2, will be held in the near hence.

Robt. C. Haynes' singing school still survives. There is great room for improvement on the choir at the Chapel. Hope Mr. Haynes will learn the youths of the neighborhood the principal involved in vocal music.

Miss Mina Wheeler's school will close in two more weeks. Miss Mina has taught us a good school. There will be an entertainment at the close of the school, the specified time will appear in the Press in due time.

Frank Newcomb will teach our school this fall. Frank is a promising young man and comes well represented as a teacher.

S. S. Carriek is and has been in a critical condition with something like neuralgia in his leg.

Wm. Doctorman, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., is among his friends and acquaintances in this neighborhood.

Miss Annie Clark, of Oak Grove, has returned home. Miss Annie has been attending school at the Chapel. We should have been glad to had Miss Annie stay with us 'till the close of the school.

The Sunday school at Cookseyville chartered a car last Saturday to "haul" them to Henderson. Round trip for 50 cents, about 100 constituted the crew.

Miss Mina Wheeler spent Sunday last at home.

W. A. Jacobs will shortly sever his connection with the Chapel Hill School and retire to a private life, where he can spend the rest of the summer beneath the branches of the lofty trees of the forest, or sit in a restable position in the shade of some sugar tree on the "green hill side" and send gnats to that place where nothing ever returns.

T. H. Minner spent Sunday with loved ones at "Home."

W. H. Bigham talks of going to Kansas in a few weeks.

J. F. Crayne has purchased the house formerly occupied by Lee Bruce at Crayneville, and will soon become an inhabitant of our little town.

L. W. Bruce is spending a few days in Ft. Worth, Texas.

R. M. Allen will enter the pedagogic rank this fall.

Duke Hill will attend the meeting at Siloam next Sunday. Duke says his future welfare lies in that community.

The young ladies of this neighborhood returns thanks to W. L. Adams, of Fredonia, for the compliment passed on them concerning their trip to Henderson. Guess Will holds a little malice against some of the girls round the Chapel for their callousness toward him in olden time.

Reuben Wheeler, a ten-year-old boy living near Union church, was bitten on the hand by a copperhead snake last week. His hand and arm began to swell rapidly, a chicken was killed, its body split open and tightly bound around the hand. This gave him almost immediate relief; three chickens were used, one after another, and the young man was almost entirely relieved.

Death.

Mr. Frank Crow, a well known citizen, died at his home in Marion Monday afternoon, June 25, 1888, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Crow was a man of pure character, kind disposition, and a good and useful citizen. His death is lamented by everyone. The remains were interred at the Fowler graveyard Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Belle Walker, wife of Mr. W. H. Walker, of the Iron Hill neighborhood, died Tuesday morning, after an illness of only four days. Mrs. Walker was an estimable Christian woman, with a large circle of friends who will mourn her death.

Solid Marion.

The rapid and permanent improvements that has been and is now going on in and around Marion since the completion of the Ohio Valley Railway, shows to any observing mind that the location and advantages surrounding this place, together with the healthy locality, makes this one of the most desirable points in this portion of the State for a permanent home. The fact that all these improvements has been quietly done without any boom of any kind is the strongest and best evidence that this growth is solid and of no mushroom character. At this time preparations are far advanced for the erection of another large block of brick business houses with a commodious Opera House over them to be completed this year. This with the certain prospects of the building of the Princeton, Marion and Ohio River Railroad from Marion to the Ohio River at an early day, placing Marion on the shortest line between St. Louis and Nashville adds at least 50 per cent to the values of Marion property, making it the central point and most desirable location for manufacturing and machine shops in western Ky., all of which will add largely to the present, permanent and solid improvements of Marion and Crittenden county.

The Press was made happy by receiving the following:

WALKER & ROCHESTER.

In Memory of Mrs. Susan C. Green.

Death, the dark winged angel, has invaded our community and for his victim chose one whom we least expected and it seems could least spare—one among the most loving and devoted of wives, and kind an affectionate of mothers. But alas! death selects a shining mark.

Mrs. Green was the wife of Hon. Wm H Green, of Livingston county, Ky., and daughter of the late Col. Richard and Kittie Miles, and was born at the Miles homestead, same county and State, 3½ miles south of Salem, on the 27th of May, 1838, was married to Wm H Green Dec. 14, 1865; made a public profession of religion and was baptised into the fellowship of Pinkneyville Baptist church in November 1871, and departed this life, after a painful and protracted illness, June 17, 1888. The writer will not extol, above measure, the shining character and rare virtues of this now sainted and once noble Christian woman. He is not warranted in claiming perfection for any of this world of sin, pain and sorrow, but after an intimate acquaintance and pastoral relationship of ten years, he has failed to discover in her words or acts anything in derogation of an exalted Christian life.

The writer repeatedly visited sister Green during her painful and prolonged sickness of five weeks, and always found her bearing her sufferings with as much patience and resignation as is possible under circumstances so trying. But oh, the fatal hour came. The struggling victim yielded to the all conquering arm; God claimed His own and bade his redeemed one come up higher.

Sister G. died as she had lived, the same humble, trusting child of God, without an enemy on earth, for the reason that she was the friend of all.

When the solemn hour of her departure came, "she was tranquil amid alarms," her strong Christian faith served as a bright halo around her dying couch. She called to her bed side her husband, crushed with grief her weeping children and friends present, and bade them an affectionate farewell, then entered the dark doorway and passed over the river to forever rest in the shade of the beautiful trees beyond.

Farwell dear wife, mother, sister for awhile. We mourn your absence but not as those who have no hope; we cherish the happy assurance that you, in your glorified form, are forever freed from the pains, cares and sorrows of this life, and are in the enjoyment of "the rest which remaineth for the people of God."

The writer preached the funeral of sister Green at her home in the presence of a large audience of weeping hearers, from the words, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord from henceforth; yea saith the spirit they rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

After which the remains were taken to the Miles graveyard, at the home of her birth, and childhood, and interred by her father and mother to await the resurrection summons.

Sister Green left a husband and five children, three sons and two daughters, ranging in age from 4 to 21 years, one sister, one brother and numerous relatives and friends, who will cherish for her a fond remembrance until we all meet again.

St. John Plow Co., Kalamazoo, Mich.

Gentlemen: We purchased four of your plows from your salesman, M. J. Richmond. We have tried them in soil land where we tried the true blue Blount and Oliver Chilled, we put yours in the same ground and I consider the work done by the St. John Plow worth at least 50 per cents more per acre plowed with your plow, we used the same team that we used with the others. I consider them a complete success in hard river land.

Yours truly,

Marion Harland's Opinion of Baking Powders.

Our readers have doubtless noticed the numerous discussions by the scientists and hygienists as to the relative value of the various baking powders. A careful sifting of the evidence leaves no doubt as to the superiority of the Royal Baking Powder in purity, wholesomeness and strength, from a scientific standpoint. An opinion, however, that will weigh heavier than any other with our practical housekeepers, is that given by Marion Harland, the best known and most popular of American writers upon matters pertaining to the domestic economy, of house keeping, and home cooking. In a recent letter to the Philadelphia Ladies Home Journal, this writer says:

"I regard the Royal Baking Powder as the best manufactured and in the market, so far as I have had any experience in the use of such compounds. Since the introduction of it into my kitchen, three years ago, I have used no other in making biscuits, cakes, etc., and have entirely discarded for such purposes the home made combination of one-third soda, two-thirds cream of tartar.

"Every box has been in perfect condition when it came into my hands, and the contents have given complete satisfaction. It is an act of simple justice, and also a pleasure, to recommend it unqualifiedly to American housewives.

MARION HARLAND.

Women in Business.

In this age of extreme activity and wonderful development, it is a noteworthy fact that many women have made their own way in mercantile life, and successfully compete with men in many lines of business. Women, whether the labor in the household or in the store, are all liable to suffer from functional derangements and the cares of maternity. For all troubles known under the category of "female weaknesses," Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is tonic and tried specific. It relieves the great sufferers, and restores the patient to vigorous health and strength. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle wrapper and faithfully carried out for many years.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, bilious headache, and all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Illegal Advertising.

It appears to me that certain styles of advertising are growing illegally aggressive. If I have a fence, I will invite to bill posters who will be forced to put up a notice forbidding the posting of bills? O if I put up no warning sign and find a board inviting the public to purchase their clothing at "Cut-penny's cheap cash store," why may I not tear off the unwarranted advertisement and throw it on the ground instead of bothering myself to write to Cut-penny to remove it within a certain time? Again, why has any lamp-lamp sheet with such thrilling stories as "A Fiend," and "Chicago Crimes and Criminals," etc., the right to thrust itself by doubles under my doorway and into my front halls? To tarnish the pure minds of my little children with its pictures of bloodshed and thievery, and keep my dinner table by engrossing the time and attention of my two literary servants. Nor does the evil rest here. Must I perforce sit supinely while some quack vender of illegal wares, thrusting hand bills, filled with details of lurid and impudent very house, and my eye boys read over them?

Can I not boldly thrust his prolix upon an unwilling recipient? Do not my fence, my steps, my yard my mail box, my house, belong to me. Has any man the right to deface or throw literary or other garbage on them.—Chicago Journal.

The Sleep of Death.

The negroes in certain districts on the west coast of Africa are said to be subject to a singular and invariably fatal malady. The person is seized with a sensation of drowsiness, which increases rapidly in spite of all efforts to throw it off until he sinks into a profound and seemingly natural sleep, which continues for about three weeks, when death occurs. During this time the patient may be easily aroused for a short time, will take food and answer questions rationally. All the bodily functions continue in a natural manner, with the exception of the abnormal tendency to sleep. There is nothing to indicate disease, and though careful post-mortem examinations have been made no trace of disease could be found. No remedy has yet been discovered.

The papers of the City of Mexico are again agitating the question of free printing paper, or at least demand a considerable reduction in the present importation duties on that article. It has been clearly indicated that the present importation duties are such a burden as to make the publishing business unprofitable in Mexico and to entirely deprive the masses of the people of cheap literature.

PROTECTION OR TARIFF REFORM.

Beyond question the tariff is the issue upon which the coming campaign will be fought, and it behooves every citizen who would vote intelligently to inform himself upon a subject which so closely affects his personal welfare.

Gen Leib's Book,

The Protective Tariff,

What It Does for Us:

Understand what is generally considered a most abstruse subject at a glance of comprehension. It will serve as a ready primer for the learner and a text-book for the learned. This book shows the practical effect of the Protective System upon the consumer, the most distinguishing feature of the book is its exact alignment with the demands of President Cleveland.

The position of Mr. Blaine's "Twenty Years in Congress" is taken up, his assertions upon the tariff analyzed, and his claims to popular reputation refuted.

Indorsements:

The form as well as the substance of the book is most admirable, and I have seen nothing surpassing it for use in the great work of spreading the truth among the people.

It is an able and logical exposition of the injustice and delusions of the protective theory. The work is timely and a very valuable contribution to the literature of tariff reform.

We take pleasure in giving this work our hearty endorsement and recommend it to local committees and clubs to assist in extending its circulation.
